IRON AND STEEL

Effect of Japanese Disaster Here And Elsewhere Discussed

WHAT is probably a temporary improvement in buying has been evident from Chinese merchants during the past few days, the inquiry having revived to an appreciable extent. Chinese buyers continue active in purchases of galvanised sheets, tinplates and wire shorts. The disaster to Tokio and Yokohama has opened vistas of large business to the Chinese dealers, and shortly after receipt of the ominous reports from Japan the Chinese metal merchants began trying to bring about a corner in certain building materials. It is stated that in Hongkong a corner in tiles is being effected. The Chinese holders are not showing much keenness in parting with their stocks. Something in the nature of a boomlet in building materials is already started, but how long it will keep up no one can say.

As is natural under such circumstances quite a crop of reports are current in the market. One of these is that the Japanese interests are attempting to buy up here all visible stocks of metals. It is also stated that the Japanese have bought up some 2,000 cases of galvanised sheets, which has caused the price to appreciate about ten percent. Inquiries made in Japanese quarters have elicited the information that the Japanese merchants are not operating either on the Shanghai, American or English markets at the present moment, awaiting to see what action the Government of Japan intends taking. It is quite possible that the authorities in Japan may introduce legislation to restrict or stop profiteering, and the Japanese merchants therefore prefer to await developments before taking any step, especially in the way of buying iron and steel goods in Shanghai in anticipation of a demand from Japan for reconstruction purposes.

A fact which must be taken into consideration is that stocks of iron and steel materials in Shanghai are very small in almost every direction and although stuff is gradually arriving on old contracts yet the supplies are below the normal requirements of the local market. Goods purchased last month will be coming in at the end of the year. The previous weeks' purchases comprised gas and steam tubes for shipments three to four months hence, and to arrive here at the beginning of next year. The present activity should keep up for sometime, but it is extremely improbable that the Japanese will be able to secure very much in the way of supplies in the Shanghai market. Despite this revival of activity in buying by China, importers here generally consider it only temporary in view of the unsettled political conditions.

Chinese merchants have been actively buying wire shorts in the United States at about G.$49 per ton free on board, American port. There has been a good deal of inquiry for second-hand plates but the Chinese dealers are not inclined to go beyond G.$28 to G.$30 per ton c.i.f Shanghai.

The exact damage to iron and steel stocks in Tokio and Yokohama cannot be known for sometime. On July 20 a total of 146,357 tons of pig iron was reported lying in stocks in the principal cities in Japan and Dairen. The stock is believed to have varied very little since. It might be mentioned that the stock of pig iron at the corresponding date last year stood at 42,529 tons higher. The holdings on July 20 at Tokio stood at 16,371 tons, Nagoya 5,385 tons, Yokohama 4,810 tons. Therefore, it might be taken for granted that as far as the pig iron market is concerned the effect on prices of the catastrophe will be insignificant. At present, it is estimated that some 120,000 tons of iron is lying in the warehouses of the Yawata Iron Works, while forward contracts concluded just prior to the great earthquake reached about 20,000 tons. The slack demand for pig iron had increased the stocks of this metal in Japan.

The future trend of the Japanese steel market is a perplexing question with every merchant. It is giving rise to a great deal of speculation and until more reliable and detailed news is received about stocks and the goods destroyed it would be idle to make estimates. It will be remembered that the duty on copper was raised in Japan last year yen 1.20 to yen 7 to protect the Japanese industry, and it is a matter for speculation as to whether this big increase will be reduced in the near future. The revised tariff placed the Japanese mine operators in an advantageous position, but they are now threatened with a revival of importation from abroad, as American copper has been steadily

FIRST BATCH OF SURVIVORS EXPECTED IN THIS MORNING

Canada Arriving With Big Passenger List

LOCAL FOLK DUE

Residents Coming Back From Japan Resorts

The first contingent of survivors of the cataclysm which devastated Tokio and Yokohama and the surrounding country a week ago are expected to arrive in Shanghai this morning by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada.

It could not be learned up to a late hour last night how many survivors were being brought over from Kobe, though wireless messages requesting information on this point had been sent by the committee formed to care for refugees arriving here. It is believed, however, that a good many survivors of the catastrophe are arriving, since the Empress will land 285 first class passengers in this port.

NUMBERS EXPECTED

This figure is about 150 over the average for Shanghai at this time of year. It is thought that the surplus arrivals are people who had gone from China to Japan for the summer and were driven out by the quake, or are Japan foreigners from the affected areas who lost everything and are coming to the homes of friends here.

A great many more are expected to arrive in Shanghai by succeeding ships and preparations for their accommodation have been actively undertaken by the international committee organisad here. Major A. H. Hilton Johnson, honorary secretary of the committee, will meet the ship at Woosung this morning and after the situation has been made clear will take the necessary steps to have any strangers who may be among the list made comfortable.

S'HAI PEOPLE RETURNING

A number of Shanghai people who were summering in the mountain resorts near Tokio are expected in on the Empress.

The British Women's Association and the American Woman's Club are giving the refugee committee great assistance in securing accommodations for the expected influx of unfortunates.

The Canada is due at Woosung about 8 a.m. and the two tenders should reach the Customs jetty at about 10:30 o'clock. A delegation representing the Chinese relief body will meet the tenders and provide quarters for any Chinese refugees.

WORLD MUST AID JAPAN, IS LONDON'S VIEW

Entire Family Of Nations Should Assist In Reconstruction

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—Long editorials continue to be a feature of all the London newspapers, filled with horror at the catastrophe, groping for precedents, extolling the traditional Japanese courage and fortitude, and not doubting that their astonishing capacity to rise superior to every obstacle will again be demonstrated in the present crisis.

The Daily Telegraph concludes its efforts to stimulate subscriptions to relief funds by remarking that the nations of the world cannot stop short at immediate relief. They must combine as a world family in the subsequent task of helping Japan to recover from the effects of the present visitation, confident that the present evil will bring the nations together in the common task of helping a young, brave and vigorous nation to recover from a blow dealt by outrageous fortune.

LEAGUE FRAMES SETTLEMENT IN GREEK DISPUTE

Minutes Of Meeting Will Be Given Council Of Ambassadors

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 6.—After half an hour's deliberation the Council of the League of Nations decided to send to the Conference of Ambassadors the whole minutes of today's proceedings, including the important reply of the Council to the Ambassadors' Conference's telegram, in which the Council makes a number of suggestions as a basis for settlement of the Italo-Greek conflict.

These suggestions include deposit of 50,000,000 lire with a Swiss bank by Greece as security for payment of eventual indemnities and reference of the question of the indemnity to the International Court of Justice. The Council's draft reply further suggests an apology by Greece, a salute by the Greek Fleet, the rendering of military honors, a funeral service at Athens, the appointment of a Commission of Enquiry by Greece, to which representatives of the three interested Powers will be adjoined, and the appointment of representatives of League of Nations to supervise the judicial enquiry and trial of the accused.

Signor Salandra objected to some of the suggestions in the reply, and the Council therefore after a prolonged discussion adopted Lord Robert Cecil's suggestion to send the minutes to the Ambassadors' Conference. This means that the Council will treat the affair conjointly with the Conference, thus safeguarding its position and dignity, but reserves the question of the competence of the League for subsequent discussion.

The conflict therefore appears to be in a fair way to settlement.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Sept. 6.—It is officially denied that an Italian submarine fired on the Greek steamer Giorgios on September 1.

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 6.—A meeting of the bureau of the Assembly of the League of Nations in conjunction with the Council decided in accordance with Lord Robert Cecil's suggestion to adjourn the plenary session of the Assembly, which was to have been held this morning, sine die, in order to avoid questions with regard to the Italo-Greek conflict to give the Council time to examine the circumstances of the conflict and to communicate with their Governments.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Sept. 6.—It is semi-officially announced that the Greek Government has informed the Italian, French and British representatives that the Greek Fleet was sent from Salamis to Volo in order to avoid contact with Italian warships that might approach the neighborhood of Athens and to establish the fact that Athens was a defenceless city.

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, Sept. 6.—The Greek Fleet has been ordered to retire to the Gulf of Volo to avoid contact with the Italian Fleet.

Call For Clothing For Japan Victims Is Sent Forth Here

An appeal for clothing for the quake refugees has been received here and is transmitted to the people of Shanghai by the British Women's Association and the American Woman's Club.

The original message was received yesterday morning by Major A. H. Hilton Johnson from Kobe and the joint committee of the two women's organisations was informed.

It is desired that all who possibly can will respond to the appeal. Clothing in good condition is wanted and parcels should be sent to the B. W. A. headquarters at 9 Kiukiang Road, where the garments will be sorted and arrangements made for their immediate shipment.

HUGE STORES OF SUPPLIES BOUGHT HERE FOR VICTIMS

U. S. Navy Department Orders Purchase

UNLIMITED FUNDS

Relief Units Leaving For Japan Today

Huge purchases of foodstuffs, medical, hospital, building and sanitary supplies were made here yesterday under instructions from the United States Navy Department at Washington and will be rushed to the devastated cities in Japan as rapidly as transport is available.

The purchases made yesterday represented a total valuation running into six figures, were so large in fact that the local market is affected, but it is expected that further supplies will arrive shortly and that there will be additional large quantities of goods available for the quake sufferers.

Instructions to buy up all available supplies were received from the Navy Department yesterday morning by Commander Browning, U. S. Navy Disbursing Officer. Orders were for the shipment of the cargo as rapidly as possible to Admiral Anderson at Yokohama.

TONS OF FOOD SECURED

Commander Browning and Mr. Carl Crow, of the American Red Cross purchasing committee, immediately made a canvass of the local dealers and arranged for the taking over of a great amount of stores of various kinds.

The purchases thus far include 9,000 cases of tinned milk and, 5,000 tons of assorted provisions, including huge quantity of canned meats, oat meal, flour and the like.

A half-million feet of lumber constituted a further purchase while others included practically all the picks and shovels, chloride of lime, roofing material and nails obtainable in Shanghai.

The buyers also obtained 500 barrels of unslaked lime.

$100,000 worth of bandages and hospital and medical supplies were other items. 25,000 yards of bed linen, or sheeting constitute a purchase in this connection, also 5,000 blankets.

In order to transport the relief supplies from Shanghai to Yokohama or Kobe all possible cargo space is being secured on vessels due to sail within the next few days. 5,000 tons' space has been scheduled for the President Grant, sailing Sunday, and between 8,000 and 10,000 tons' space on various other ships due to leave here shortly. In addition, the China Merchants' ship Hsin Ming leaving this morning is wholly given over to the carrying of the relief units and supplies. Her cargo includes 1,100 cases of foodstuffs and other needed commodities supplied the Red Cross through the American Association and American Chamber of Commerce as well as large quantities of rice and four supplied by the Chinese organisations.

Great praise should be accorded Commander Browning for the rapidity with which he surveyed the field and obtained results.

According to advices received here all the refrigerator space on the President Grant has been taken, Hongkong shipping 80 tons of frozen meat for the sufferers.

A navy wireless message picked up here states that the American Red Cross at Washington has cabled the United States Ambassador at Tokio G.$100,000 to be placed at the disposal of the Japan Red Cross and has cabled a further G.$10,000 for the relief of Americans in the stricken cities.

UNITS LEAVING

Both the Chinese and American Red Cross relief units are leaving by the Hsin Ming, which sails at 9 o'clock for Kobe direct and will report for further orders to the American Consulate there.

Another doctor has been added to the American unit—Dr. W. W. Peter, who has just returned to Shanghai and will go as special representative of the American Red Cross Central Committee. The other physicians are Drs. Morriss B. Miller, who will be in charge, George C. Ballard and A. C. Selmon. Dr.

YOKOHAMA IS QUIET; TOKIO STARTS WORK ON REPAIRS

135,000 Are Still Without Shelter n Capital

GUARD LEGATIONS

All Consulates At Yokohama Lost In Disaster

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 7, 3.55 p.m.—Inquiries are pouring in from abroad regarding the safety of Osaka, Kobe, Kyoto, Nagoya and Nagasaki, which are all safe and entirely outside the zone of the disaster. Order in these cities is well maintained and the citizens are very actively engaged in the relief campaign.

Tokio is still practically shut up. Communication between Osaka and Tokio is still very difficult. Railway traffic by a roundabout way has been opened but accommodation is very limited. The steamship service is regularly maintained, but is unable to meet the overwhelming demand. Telegraph and telephone communication has nominally been established, but is practically unavailable. Army aeroplanes are carrying the very important mail daily.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, Sept. 7, 9.00 p.m.—According to a report issued on Wednesday by the headquarters of martial law Yokohama is quiet.

The Tokio Municipality is pushing on repairs with the aid of troops but those without shelter still number 135,000.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, Sept. 7, 7.10 p.m.—Four representatives of Reuter's Agency despatched to Tokio from Nagoya and Osaka have all reached Tokio. They report that the American and French Embassies and the Chinese Legation were burned down.

The British and other Embassies and Legations were not burned but were seriously damaged by the earthquake. At Yokohama all the Consulates were destroyed by the earthquake and fire.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 7.—It is believed that the Department of Finance is contemplating exempting the zone of the disaster from taxes for one year.

While the safety of the famous Daibutsu (the huge image of Buddha) at Kamakura is still unknown, the latest photographs of Tokio depict the small Daibutsu at Uyeno Park sitting there calmly with its head completely gone.

An official wireless message states that nobody will be admitted into Tokio unless on official duty. It is believed that this is intended to minimise the tremendous influx of anxious inquirers.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 7 3.5 p.m.—It is reported that a Secretary of the Japanese Foreign Office, Mr. Morishima, has made a tour of the zone of the disaster, including Kamakura, Zushi and Haya, making an investigation into the safety of the Foreign Ambassadors.

He reports that the following are safe:

The Mexican Minister.

The German Ambassador, and his family.

The family of the Belgian Ambassador.

The French Ambassador and his wife.

The Brazilian Minister and his wife.

Tokio Central Observatory has announced that earthquake vibrations were felt 356 times on Sept. 1 and 2, 289 times on Sept. 3, 173 times on Sept. 4, 148 times on Sept. 5 and 63 times up to six o'clock in the morning of Sept. 6, aggregating 1,029 times. The earthquake signs are diminishing and there is no more anxiety.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 6.—An intercepted wireless message sent by the

YOKOHAMA IS CHARNEL HOUSE, MESSAGE SAYS

Associated Press correspondent in Tokio, dated Wednesday, noon, states:—

"It is estimated that 200 foreigners lost their lives in Yokohama but names are not obtainable. Yokohama is a charnel house. An arrival from there says that the stench from the bodies is unbearable. The canals are filled with dead, who were driven there and to the waterroad by fire.

"A large number of foreigners were caught on the main street doing their Saturday shopping. The earthquake left great gaps in the pavements.

"Americans and British are gathering the bodies of foreigners for burial in the sea.

"The remnants of the Chinese population are gathered under the Bluff without food or shelter.

"The only American dead in Tokio is Mr. W. J. Blume of the General Electric Company who was killed when a factory collapsed.

"Americans in Yokohama dead include Captain McDonald (Grand Hotel), Mrs. Root and her son, who was a recent arrival, and Mr. Kirjassof, the American Consul."

Another intercepted wireless message shows that the American Ambassador is safe and also the entire Embassy staff, with the exception of Major and Mrs. Crane, whose fate is not yet known, and the Consul, Mr. Kirjassof, and his family and Miss Doris Babbitt, who are reported to be killed.

The message is signed by Mr. Woods (the Ambassador) and is addressed to the Secretary of State, Washington.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 7.—Eighty percent of the total area of the capital was swept over by the earthquake and conflagrations. The dead, according to investigations made up to today, number some 60,000. The authorities concerned are collecting and distributing foodstuffs, which are fast coming in from all parts of Japan, and are being distributed among the sufferers at various points. Though the whole city of Tokio is still presenting a heart-rending sight, peace and order are being maintained admirably by the Martial Law and by the citizens at large. Premier Yamamoto has despatched a lengthy telegram to the President of the United States, expressing Japan's heartfelt thanks for his declaration of relief of the earthquake sufferers in Japan as well as for the prompt despatch of American warships from various parts in the Far East.

The Royal Family, in addition to their relief-money to the amount of Y.10,000,000, have donated lumber from the Imperial estate forests throughout the country and one million koku of rice.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—A staff member of Nihon Dempo who has just come back from Yokohama, says:

"The whole city seems to have been levelled to the ground by the first shock, and then fire completed the work of destruction. The Prefectural Office of Kanagawa, which was the pride of the city for its stout construction, withstood the earthquake but was soon easily destroyed by the fire.

"With blazing flames on all sides of them, people fought their way to the city park, where, however, they were not safe still, for, owing to the breaking of water pipes, the park was flooded all over.

"The law court collapsed, and judges and procurators were crushed to death outright. With the collapse of the Post Office, more than 100 officials and employes were killed.

"Out of the entire population of 400,000, the number so far ascertained of those who are in refuge is reckoned at 100,000 only. The fate of the remaining 300,000 is not yet known. It may be rash to conclude that all of them have perished, but the government's estimate which put the death in Yokohama at 100,000 is not correct either. To my mind at least 150,000 were killed in Yokohama alone."

Shanghai, Sept. 7.—A special despatch to the Eastern News Agency from the Osaka Mainichi reports: The two hundred foreign residents in Yokohama, who were killed, have been laid to rest.

(Eastern News Agency)

Osaka, Sept. 7.—With regards to the loss of Tokio City, close investigations are now being made. It has come to light that the districts totally destroyed are Shiba Park, Tamelke of Akasaka Ward, Uyeno Park, Nippori Minami Senju, Tsukishima Kameido, Fukagawa, Honjo Asakusa, Ueno, Nihonbashi and Kyobashi and part of Koishikawa Shitaya, Hongo, Shiba, Azabu and Akasaka. It is estimated that those whose houses have been burnt down, are two-thirds of the total population of Tokio City. The whole city of Yokohama, with the exception of the Bluff, has been completely destroyed.

GOING TO JAPAN TO HELP RESTORE PRINTING PLANTS

Mr. H. Ellis, Of Linotype Company, Sails To Aid Stricken Press

Among those departing for Japan to render first aid in various ways as a consequence of the recent disaster is Mr. H. Ellis, Far Eastern Manager for Linotype and Machinery, Ltd., who is sailing on the Empress of Asia this evening to give all assistance possible toward the re-establishment of the newspaper offices and the Imperial Bureau of Printing, destroyed by the quake and fire, endeavoring to restore the sources of public information, lack of which has been a serious handicap in the attempts to carry news and advice to the disorganised populace of the stricken district.

Mr. Ellis, who has been in the Far East for a number of years, is one of the chief mechanical experts of the linotype company and it is believed that his presence in Tokio and Yokohama will be of great help in bringing about a rapid restoration of local communications. Before his departure, which was under instructions from his head offices in England, he made a rapid telegraphic survey of the Far East, including India, ascertaining the amount of all available equipment which could be sent from various points to Japan. He also wired for data as to the equipment which could be rapidly sent out from the factories in England and America and believes that his firm will be able to supply its clients in the destroyed cities with sufficient plant to get well under way again within a short time. A considerable amount of plant, now located in Shanghai, Hongkong, Singapore, or on the way out to the East, it is expected, it will be possible to bring to Japan very quickly, serving as a basis for the full restoration of the news service.

RUMOR CANTON MINT REOPENED IS DISCOUNTED

Big Silver Consumer Due To Have Started Operating Yesterday

The Canton Mint was scheduled to re-open yesterday according to a report appearing in the Canton Daily News on September 1. The mint, which has been closed for a long period because of the fighting in the South, was the largest consumer of silver in the world, and in the year before it was closed consumed one-fourth of the world's silver supply.

It is said no silver is available in Canton or Hongkong, and as far as could be learned no purchases of silver have been made in Shanghai. Bankers and brokers in Shanghai are of the opinion that the report is quite premature.

The Canton paper's story reads as follows:

"The government mint in Canton will start work on the 6th instant. Mr. Wong So, the Superintendent, and Mr. Au Lim, the Managing-director of the Mint, attended office yesterday and held a meeting of the staff, the experts and foremen to discuss methods of improving the working systems of the mint. A careful inspection of the coining machines and the different departments of the workshop was made by the Superintendent and the managing-director.

"Managing-director Au Lim also instructed the workmen to have certain damaged parts of the machines repaired immediately. Every preparation for the opening of the Mint is being carried on busily in order that the date set for the resumption of work will not be further delayed."

Insurance Firms Legally Absolved In Quake Disaster

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, Sept. 6 5.40 p.m.—Japanese fire insurance companies are legally absolved by virtue of the clause not admitting responsibility arising from fires due directly or indirectly to an earthquake. The policy holders will merely receive refund covering the unexpired period. Following the example of the American underwriters at the time of the earthquake at San Francisco, the Japanese underwriters will probably voluntarily offer a certain solatium besides the unexpired portion. A decision as to what action they will take is expected shortly The extent of the damage cannot at present be ascertained.

DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST DOCTOR IN MIXED COURT

Inspector Stey, of Paulun Hospital, and Dr. Tsang Pau-suh, who were charged with homicide following the death of the Chinese woman knocked down by a motor on Avenue Edward VII July 31 and taken to the Mortuary, where she recovered—dying later—were again brought before the Mixed Court yesterday, when the charge against Stey was dismissed.

The reason for the dismissal of the charge by Assessor Mariin and Magistrate Li was that Stey was able to show French registry, and hence was not amenable to the jurisdiction of the Mixed Court. The joint summons against the two men was therefore withdrawn at the request of Mr. E. Maitland, Police Prosecutor.

When the case was called the Assessor stated that the Court had accepted the jurisdiction contention and Stey would be dismissed. Mr. Maitland said that as regarded the other defendant he would ask that the charge be allowed to stand over pending any proceeding which might be taken against Stey in the French Court. If nothing was done there would be no proceedings against the Chinese defendant.

Mr. Musso, appearing for the defense, opposed, declaring the charge to be absurd. He asked that the charge be withdrawn, or proceeded with at once. The Assessor stated that it would be useless for the prosecution to go on now and that the case would be adjourned sine die and might be brought up if proceedings are taken in the French Court.

GREAT BRITAIN NOT TO PRESS WRANGEL CLAIM

Noice Expedition Is Private, Soviet Government Is Informed

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 7.—That the British are not at present pressing their claims to Wrangel Island is shown in a telegram from Reuter's Moscow correspondent, stating that the British representative delivered a Note, declaring that Captain Noice's expedition was private and therefore the question of sovereignty was not raised, and warning that Britain would view very seriously any attempt to interfere with the relief expedition.

The Soviet Government replied, noting the private character of the expedition and also that sovereignty was not in question, and declaring that it does not intend to impede relief and scientific expeditions, but considers that they should be organised in coordination with the Soviet Government.

URGE BRITAIN TO SLASH PAY OF ARMY, NAVY

Committee Of Inquiry In Report Recommends Reductions

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 6.—A more or less general reduction in the pay of officers and men of the fighting forces is favored in the report of the Committee appointed to enquire into remuneration and conditions of employment of State servants.

The Committee considers that the pay of naval ratings is too high and should be reduced parallel with reductions in the pay of the Army. It thinks that officers up to Captain in the Army and Lieut.-Commander in the Navy are at present paid more than is necessary.

The Committee commends the Army Council's pay revision schemes and suggests a substantial reduction in the pay of junior officers and men of the Air Force. It sees no reason to increase the pay of the Civil Service, while suggesting a longer working day in London.

RUHR PEACE IS SEEN AS ONLY HOPE FOR MARK

Fighting Spirit In Germany Gives Way To Talk Of Mutual Concessions

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Sept. 7.—The catastrophic fall of the mark has demonstrated the non-success of a confusing variety of regulations, proclamations and restrictions. The demand for foreign currencies is steadily increasing. Nobody will be surprised if sterling reaches 500,000,000 marks within a week.

A noteworthy feature of the situation is the growing realisation that the only hope of salvation lies in an agreement with France regarding reparations and the Ruhr. The slogan "fight to the bitter end" is being succeeded by talk of "mutual concessions."

In the meantime discussions by the Ministry of Finance foreshadow the foundation of a gold note bank and the appointment of a financial dictator equipped with far-reaching powers.

By the same token it is quite probably that the Japanese duty on steel and tinplates which has been causing complaints among importers and others in Japan will be modified. A good demand for the produce of the Japanese Government Steel Works is likely to set in, and in all likelihood the recent revision in the price list of the Steel Works will be cancelled and prices quoted higher for the Works' products. There should be good business and the market in general is expected to get stronger. Plates, flat and square bars, tinplates and nails had been stocked fairly largely at Yokohama and Tokio before the catastrophe, but the extent of the holdings in these two destroyed cities is as yet unknown.

Japanese merchant buying which has been such a feature of the American export market has subsided entirely. Prospects of transacting any large business at present are considered somewhat unpromising by the Japanese purchasers. There should however be a better demand soon for railroad business and tinplates.

The iron and steel markets in New York and London show no improvement. There has been heavy liquidation in copper by Continental holders and the opinion is expressed that American copper refiners will curtail production if the price goes below £60 per ton. It is stated that the copper mints of China will shortly be placing large orders for electrolytic copper, but buyers apparently are waiting for lower price levels. Moderate purchases of copper and brass are being made, and the demand for electrolytic copper from the Chinese copper mints which in the past suffered a setback should be offset later.

Several inquiries are being made in Shanghai for quotations on scarp and large quantities of structural material and for copper and structural steel.

Latest quotations on the London market are as follows: Electrolytic copper £68.10 per ton for spot and $69 for future, tin £194 spot, quicksilver £8.17.6 for spot, lead £24.15 spot, spelter £33.10 for spot and £32.7.6 for future, standard copper £62.17.6 for spot.

Unique Baseball Game On Card This Afternoon; Shanghai Is Sure To Win

That May Sound Fishy, But It Is A Solemn Fact, Because Both Teams Will Be Composed Of Gallopers

By Westa

A baseball game which in one respect is to be the most unique contest staged in Shanghai this summer is to be played at the race track field this afternoon, beginning at 3:15.

The thing about this game that will be absolutely unique—so unique in fact that merely reading this little advance notice of it will undoubtably cause large numbers of the baseball club's customers to lose consciousness at their breakfast tables this morning—is the fact that Shanghai will win.

Unbelievable as that may seem, the fact remains that Shanghai will win this game. There's no way to stop it; the cards are all stacked.

It's like this: the game is to be between two Shanghai teams. Thus if you are acquainted with the first principles of elementary arithmetic it will be quite apparent that Shanghai must win.

There are customers who will doubt this statement. They will say it's impossible—that if nothing else intervenes the game will be up at the end of the ninth and that they will then battle uselessly until darkness puts an end to the duel.

No chance! Whoever heard of a Shanghai team going more than a couple of innings without the opposition scoring some runs? No chance at all—Shanghai will win this game, nevah feah!

The teams will line up as follows:

Barney Googles		Spark Plugs
Thatch	ss	Pepper
Holliday	2b	Smith
Wall	c	Bogle
Kingman	lb	A. E. Taylor
Farmer	rf	Hirsh
Maloney	p	Posnecki
Wilhelmni	cf	Wynn
Tinkham	lf	Buck Taylor
Howland	3b	Scott

Substitutes: Bullard, Woods, Moss, Swann and Cutchins.

All the above named players are urged to be at the field at 3.15 ready for action, of which there will be plenty, according to Herby Gallop. All the proceeds of the game will be turned over to the Red Cross for relief of the quake and fire sufferers and the management of the baseball club hopes there will be a good turnout.

Mac, the handsome goof who guards the gate will be on hand to collect at least one smacker from all who attend, and will have a big hickory club ready to knock all those silly who offer him more—yeh, knock 'em silly before they change their minds.

Rules Announced By Golf Club For Hong Foursome Competition This Season

New Regulations Will Clear Up Misunderstandings That Have Caused Bickerings In Past; Two Hongs May Join Conditionally

The Shanghai Golf Club's announcement of the conditions under which the Hong Foursome Competition will be played this year was sent out yesterday, and contains some modifications over the regulations of last year. This competition for some seasons has been the cause of no little friction between the members and the committee, largely by reason of the fact that members did not have a clear understanding of what the conditions were. This resulted in pairings of members in the same business but attached to different hongs that led to more or less bickering, all of which, however, was good natured.

This year the committee lays down clear and definite rules for the pairings, listing the occupations and professions from which pairs may be formed, and specifying that firms with less than five foreign employers may unite with other firms to form a pair. The notice follows:

HONG FOURSOMES

Open for competition between members of any recognised Shanghai Hong or any of the Professions or occupations mentioned below:

(a) Physicians or Surgeons.
(b) Barristers and Solicitors.
(c) Church—including Missionaries.
(d) Architects and Civil Engineers.
(e) Ship and Freight Brokers.
(f) Stock and Share Brokers.
(g) Bill and Bullion Brokers.
(h) Any firm of less than five Europeans may combine with any similar Hong for the purpose of forming a pair.

When competitors have a dual interest in more than one Hong, Profession or calling, they must declare to play for the Hong in which they are mainly interested. When any doubt arises in this respect the decision shall be left with the Committee whose ruling shall be final. A Hong, Profession or calling may be represented by more than one pair.

The competition shall be played in Tournament Form, 18 holes match play. Final 36 holes, Club Handicaps. Entrance fee $2 each pair. Entries close Thursday, September 20.

BOGEY COMPETITION

There will be a Bogey Competition on Saturday and Sunday, September 15 and 16. Conditions 18 holes—two Classes.

A. 16 and Under.
B. Over 16.

Cards $1 each; only one card may be taken out.

Consul Objects To New Exclusion Act

(Reuter's Service)

Vancouver, Sept. 7.—Mr. Chow Chi-lien, the Chinese Consul-General in Canada, who is on his way to Peking to report on the Chinese Immigration Bill, declares that the bill is so harsh that the Chinese may boycott Canadian goods, missionaries and merchants. He states that the most objectionable clause of the bill are the exclusion of families of merchants already in Canada, the imposition of a fine on Chinese failing to register, and the second poll-tax on Chinese changing their occupation since 1917.

Del Monte

The benefit entertainment at the Del Monte last night was by long odds the most pleasing program ever offered by the popular cafe. The program included a total of twelve numbers, including two ballets. A crowd that filled the place to capacity was present, standing room being at a premium most of the evening.

In addition to the ballets there were some fine vocal numbers, those by Mrs. Hamilton being especially pleasing. The famous sixteen girl chorus of the Del Monte Follies was at its best, all the girls appearing in new costumes and new dances.

A very considerable sum was raised for the relief fund, the admissions alone netting over $600. In addition, the management gave a quarter of the entire proceeds of the evening.

MAILS TO AND FROM UNITED STATES DUE

American mail will leave on the Empress of Asia and arrives on the Empress of Canada today. The Asia is due at Woosung from Hongkong this morning, and sails for Vancouver via Japanese ports early tomorrow morning. The tender with incoming passengers from the ship is expected at the Customs jetty about 11:30 a.m., and the outgoing tender, conveying passengers for Woosung, will leave at 5:30 p.m. Mail closes at 5:30 p.m.

The Canada will also arrive at Woosung from Vancouver and Japan ports this morning, and sailing for Hongkong early tomorrow morning. The tenders with incoming passengers are expected to reach the Customs jetty around 10:30 a.m. and the outbound tender will leave at 6:30 p.m. There are two extra tenders which will leave the Customs jetty at 10:30 p.m. for both the Empress boats, and no baggage is allowed on these tenders.

Following the Asia, another fast mail will leave on the President Grant next Monday. The Grant is due here from Hongkong tomorrow afternoon, and will dock at the China Merchants Central Wharf around one o'clock. It is scheduled to sail for Seattle at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and mail to be sent on this boat will close at 7 a.m. Monday.

Two President vessels are arriving from the States next week. They are the Presidents Wilson and Mckinley. The former should arrive at Yokohama yesterday and is due here next Wednesday, and the latter is to dock at that port next Tuesday, and in Shanghai on Sunday, September 16.

Girl Deportee Reappears Here; Again Expelled

Maria Moresopp, Russian girl who was deported from the Settlement in July, 1922 after repeated appearances on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was arrested on the old charge Thursday evening in Haining Road and appeared again at the Mixed Court yesterday. She was further charged with returning from expulsion.

The girl stated to the police that she was married to John Boyle, British subject, 22 North Szechuen Road, but Boyle testified that they were to be married the first of next month. The defendant was thus still answerable to the jurisdiction of the Mixed Court and Assessor Ivanoff and Magistrate Tsang ordered her again expelled from the Settlement, the Chinese authorities to be informed that she is not to be allowed to re-enter.

Return Pistols To Late Tuchun's Son

An application was made in the Mixed Court yesterday for the disposal of two pistols found by the police at 12 Haining Road in the home of one Yang Ching-zu, son of the late Yang Zeu-tuh, former tuchun of Chekiang. It was shown that the weapons had belonged to the father, who had a license for their possession, and they were therefore ordered to be returned to the son. The son of a former Mixed Court magistrate, who gave information regarding the weapons, and another Chinese were ordered arrested for laying false information.

NOTICE

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR ASSISTANCE AND REPATRIATION OF RUSSIAN REFUGEES

begs to inform the Shanghai Community that the opening of the lottery, conducted by the Committee with the authorisation of M. Wilden, Consul-General for France, for the Benefit of all Russian Refugees, will be held on Monday, September 10th, at the Committee's Office, 14-16 Rue Chu Pao San, at 5 p.m.

The aim of the lottery is to get the necessary funds for sending from Shanghai the Russian Refugees and first of all the Cadets, to Russia or countries where they can earn their living, as only very few of them can find in this port any work, and the comparatively small Shanghai Foreign Community cannot continue to contribute the money necessary for their support.

All the money thus obtained will be used under the control of the Committee for repatriation and none of the money will be used for the maintenance of Russians at Shanghai, except certain incidental expenses to be met before the repatriation of the Cadets can be started.

The first issue of the lottery will comprise 30,000 tickets of $5 each for a total amount of $150,000, a number of them sub-divided in 10 coupons of 50 cts. each, and will be divided as follows:—

60% in prizes ($90,000)
10% to agents and shops selling tickets
60% of the remaining balance to be applied for the benefit of the Russians.
40% of the remaining balance to defray expenses, such as printing of tickets, advertising, staff, office, etc...

The drawing for the prizes will take place in the French Municipal Town-Hall under the direction of Mr. A.W. Olsen on October 9, 1923, and the prizes will be paid irrespectively of the number of tickets sold, the Committee having secured for this a first-rate guarantee.

The prizes will be as follows:

1	First Prize		$40,000
1	Second ,,		10,000
1	Third ,,		3,000
1	Fourth ,,		2,000

598	For numbers having the two terminal figures similar to those of the 2nd and 3rd prizes	$8 each	4,784
598	For numbers having the two terminal figures similar to those of the 4th and 5th prizes	$7 each	4,186
4,625	Drawn tickets-	Total:	$90,000

The five first prizes will be paid by the Union Bank of China, 1 The Bund, and the others at the Committee's office.

The Committee strongly hopes that the Community will help them in the task undertaken by buying the tickets, which will be not only an act of humanity, but will be really beneficial to ourselves.

(China Press Correspondence)

Canton, Aug. 31.—A meeting of representatives of the different commercial guilds in Canton was held Wednesday afternoon at the General Chamber of Commerce to discuss the business tax recently imposed by the Provincial Treasury. After a long discussion by the representatives, it was finally decided that, in view of the financial stringency of the government, the merchants should not oppose the imposition of the tax. However, the representatives decided to reduce the rate.

In order to have a proper place for the stationing of soldiers, the military authorities have decided to rebuild the barracks in Yentong, outside the Great East Gate, which were destroyed by fire some time ago. The site of these barracks is very large and is sufficient for the accommodation of several thousand soldiers. The Department of War of General Headquarters has been appealed to by the military authorities to appropriate sufficient funds for building these barracks. Lack of definite places for the stationing of soldiers, has caused them to be quartered all over the city. Consequently the authorities consider it necessary to find a proper place outside the city for the soldiers.

General Li Chai-sam, the newly appointed Defence Commissioner of Wuchow, Kwangsi, assumed his new post recently. General Li has sent out a circular telegram announcing his assumption of office. He will be responsible for the protection of the city of Wuchow. Rumours have been circulated by the enemy propagandists recently to the effect that General Li refused to take up the post of Defence Commissioner of Wuchow on account of the complication of military units in that city.

The assumption of office by the General will clear up these rumours. Many telegrams have been sent by the different prominent officials of the South-west to the new Commissioner expressing their congratulations. Mayor Sun Fo has also addressed a congratuatory message to General Li in which the Mayor highly lauds the General's ability in maintaining the peace in Wuchow.

My Favorite Stories

BY IRVIN S. COBB

Among gamblers there is a saying, and a true one, that no matter how wise a guy may be in his own line he's always a sucker at some other fellow's game. The expert confidence man goes against the crooked roulette wheel. The promoter of the fixed foot races blows his loot on faro.

It has remained for a sporting person whose specialty is poker to explain why, in his own case, he fails to garner any profits when he invades a kindred field of endeavor. He went to Belmont track one day to play the races. When he returned home in the evening he was penniless. The hand book makers had stripped him of his last dollar.

His wife took him to task.

"You certainly are a sucker," she said. Every time you go to the track you come home cleaned out. Why is it you always lose there when you always can win at cards?"

"Well," he said, "I've been thinking about that very thing myself, and I guess the answer is that I don't shuffle the horses."

DAME ANDERSON COMING TO CHINA NEXT NOVEMBER

Will Make Comprehensive Study Of Factory Conditions

A letter just received from Dame Adelaide M. Anderson, until recently His Majesty's Inspector of Factories in Great Britain and now visiting Australia, indicates her readiness to pay a lengthened visit to China in order to study the situation here and help in any way possible. Writing to Bishop Roots, Secretary of the National Christian Council, she says:

"I am anxious to come as soon as possible and help in hearty response to the invitation sent me from the National Christian Council of China. This opportunity for entering at an early stage into the difficulties of the rapid development of the factory system in so great and ancient a country as China I feel to be a great one. The very rapidity in growth of the factory system may lead China to a readiness to believe in the supreme need of a moral rule over the mechanical and economic forces in industrial life. I am most willing to do all in my power to help the Council and yourself in investigation of the factory conditions and in giving the best advice I can out of my years of experience in Europe."

She expects to reach Shanghai about the middle of November and will probably be able to spend about three months in the country. Arrangements for her work here are in the hands of the National Christian Council and any who wish to have her advice in regard to factory conditions, welfare work, etc., or to arrange for lectures on the problems connected with factory life should communicate with the secretary of the National Christian Council, 5 Quinsan Gardens, without delay.

Supremacy Of U.S. In Cotton Is Threatened

New York, August 16.—President Bartlett of the New York cotton exchange issued a statement today declaring the boll weevil and droughts have damaged the year's cotton crop to the extent of $65,000,000. He said that unless the ravages of the weevil are checked within the next few years American supremacy as a cotton growing nation will be threatened.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

September 7, 1923

Spot bar silver was up ⅛d. and forward unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 63⅛ cents and the London-New York cross rate declined to 452. The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Franc rate to 1260 and a drop in the Yen to 70.

Notwithstanding the fact that news was received from American today of the formation of the Silver Export Association our market here today was on the easy side. Speculators who have sold heavily these past few days were more inclined to cover their oversold position than to make further purchases.

At one time business in Sterling was done at 3s. 1⅞d. September. 3s. 1½d. October and 3s. 1⅝d. November-December. These were the highest rates at which business was done.

At the close there were sellers of Sterling at ⅛d. below these rates. Gold Dollars were done at one time at 70⅞ for near and forward deliveries but at the close there were no sellers at better than 70½.

There was good demand for Yen today for near delivery but banks were unwilling to draw on their balances in Japan. However, Yen T.T. could possibly have been obtained at 68½ this month and 68¼ for forward deliveries.

Banks were quoting 3s. 2¼d., 72½ and 1320 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

China bought silver again in London yesterday and the Continent sold, the market closing steady. New York report their market as steady also.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China cotton: The past week has been one of great activity in trading in so far as general purchase for local mills were concerned. The predominating sentiment seemed to be in favor of higher prices, but the uncertainty which is being felt regarding the "Japanese Earthquake" outlook has prevented the broadening of speculation. The attention of the trade has been divided between the manipulative tactics of local operations displayed in their juggling of new crop position. Whatever may be the ultimate object of these operations, their influence has been one of the controlling factors in the market and has brought about a moderate revival of "bull" speculation of the outside public.

As to the crop outlook, evidence has been accumulating that the long period of favorable weather which has prevailed throughout the belt has been instrumental in bringing about a marked improvement in its conditions. During the week rather good progress has been made and picking has been started and if the present favorable weather continues for another fortnight or so it will bring out a large amount of cotton. For the present the movement continues slow, and we do not look for heavy receipts before October 1.

On the whole, the outlook as it appears today does not seem to warrant the expectation of extreme fluctuations and the probability therefore is for a continuance of a rather narrow market until the situation shapes itself in a more decided manner and conservatism should therefore be the keynote of any operations entered into at the present time.

Yarn.—The market during the past week was keeping steady to firm, prices have shown little change and trading continued moderately active, especially for 20s. counts. In all some 8 to 9,000 bales of local spinnings have been booked for export to Szechuen, Swatow, Canton, Wuhu, Tientsin, Fukien, Yingkow, Tsingtao, Ningpo, Chefoo and Kiangse.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China cotton: Our market during the early part of the week remained steady and thereafter showed signs of weakness which apparently was influenced by the news from Japan of the destruction of and partial damage by the earthquake to about one-sixth of the spindleage in operation there. At the close, however, there has transpired a steadier undertone. Weather conditions for the domestic crop are very favorable and picking operations are now in full swing in some of the districts in the Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces, so that within a fortnight from now we may expect the new season cotton ready for distribution in the open market.

Mid-Americans and Indians tend to higher prices, so that the outlook for large importations into China from these countries is not very bright for the time being, however, such is subject to favorable modification in the event of an appreciable improvement in the demand for yarn eventuating.

With regard to the future trend of prices on the local staple it is necessary to take into consideration the quantity that will be exported to Japan and abroad and in surveying the situation at this time the indications for the moment are that such outflow from China will be materially greater than that recorded for the last season. Should such materialise it becomes obvious that large exports from China will engender more or less firmness in the values of the raw material for domestic consumption even if the spindleage in China is not in full operation during the whole or part of the 1923-24 season. Tone of the market is steady.

Hongkong Doctor Kills Big Snake

On Wednesday last, during the heavy rains a large rock python was discovered in the new house of White Cottage at Taipo, much to the fear and consternation of the Chinese, says the Hongkong Telegraph.

The reptile was shot by Capt. W. E. Clarke and eventually brought in and found to measure 14½ feet in length and 18 inches round. This is said to be a record for this part of the world.

On opening the reptile, it was found that he had devoured one guinea fowl and three full-grown fowls, two of the latter had evidently been dragged off their sitting nests.

The snake has been skinned and if the weather will allow, it will be cured as a specimen.

He Clears W. Shakespeare From Wicked Tales Of Old

With whatever regret those interested in the biography of Shakespeare may give up the ancient traditions of deer-stealing, holding horses at the theatre and the dark lady, they will welcome with genuine relief this clear and convincing "Life of William Shakespeare," by Joseph Quincy Adams (Houghton, Mifflin). It is the first completely successful work in its field.

Sidney Lee's bulky volume on the subject of Shakespeare contains practically all the available information concerning the greatest English poet and playwright, but its combination of criticism and history is not happy and its narrative style is turgid. By its aid one might work out a fairly definite outline of the poet's life, but on a first reading it merely bewilders. Raymond Alden's book on the same subject is a most admirable digest of criticism and critical research, but does not pretend to adequacy as a story of the life. Halliwell-Phillipp's "Outlines of the Life of Shakespeare" brings all the materials together but makes no attempt at interpretation.

It has been Mr. Adams's task to piece out all the fact and rumor which has come down to us to make a rounded picture of the man Shakespeare in his time. By eschewing criticism entirely he has been able to give his narrative sufficient space for the presentation of necessary documentary proofs and related details. But his main achievement is clarity—the fitting together, as he states in the preface, of the scattered parts "like the members of a jig-saw puzzle" in their sequence.

Reading this volume one is convinced that no fact is stated without substantiation, that no probability is pointed out without justification, yet the whole reads as smoothly and as convincingly as a romance. The data and their implications are all noted, with fair allowance for circumstantial evidence and no dogmatic assumptions.

It appears, after all, that Shakespeare is more likely to have been a school teacher than a poacher before he went up to London, is more likely to have entered the theater as a literary hack than as a horse-boy. So be it. Mr. Adams has done a thoroughly good job.

It might be added that Mr. Adamas is the first to bring to the attention of American readers the possibility of the existence of a scene in the first draft autograph of Shakespeare. A play called "Sir Thomas Moore," written by Anthony Munday and acted by Shakespeare's company, is preserved in manuscript form in the British Museum. The manuscript was read by a censor who directed in the margin that the "insurrection scenes" be omitted in performance. Instead of being left out those scenes were rewritten by several hands, one among them bearing a strong resemblance to Shakespeare's known signatures.

A reading of that particular scene from "Sir Thomas Moore," which is obtainable in the "Shakespeare Apocrypha," convinces this reviewer that it is actually Shakespeare's. It has, more than any other doubtful play or scene assigned to him, the stamp and accent of the master. Internal evidence is pooh-poohed by many as worthless, yet in the case of the immortal William it is about as good as any. No Elizabethan except one could have written the speech to the mob in "Sir Thomas Moore." Read it for yourself and decide.

EXTRACT FROM EXPERT REPORT:

"Having visited most of the cement factories of Great Britain, America and Europe, I am in a position to form an opinion of the relative merits and faults of each .....but my experiences lead me to the conclusion that 'pride of place' must unquestionably be given to the Holderbank Factory in Switzerland .....In design and construction it is a model without rival in any country." W. H. Brown, A. M. I. Mech. E., leading authority in England on cement manufacturing.

The Wisdom of the ancient Sage and the technical experiences of a modern authority on cement manufacturing have guided us to instal a set of machinery in our Lungwha Works which is an exact model of the one used by the Holderbank factory, Switzerland, and supplied by the original patentees with numerous latest improvements. The cement we are now supplying our customers is the product of that "perfect instrument."

Cloudy and cool weather. Strong Nly winds on the Yellow sea and along our coasts, because of the high pressures in the North spreading on the Yellow Sea. The Pacific ocean typhoon will probably raise rough weather to the S. E. of Formosa and possibly on the South of the Eastern Sea.

Premier Poincare's Questions

IN his recent speech at Villers-Cotterets the French premier put a number of questions, some of which no doubt were merely rhetorical, while others appear to call for an answer. Of the first sort may be his query in regard to the British—"Why didn't they go into the Ruhr with us?" The answer to this, of course, Premier Poincare knows perfectly. Questions of a different type are summarised thus:—

When Germany rebuilt her mercantile fleet, developed her railroads, and dug new canals, was she repairing damages or undertaking improvements? Was she paying for these improvements from available resources or to the detriment of the allies?

These questions are fair and important. Some of them answer themselves. When Germany rebuilt her mercantile fleet, seized by the allies, and rehabilitated railroads and rolling stock worn out by the war she was repairing damages. In so far as new lines have been constructed and new canals dug, she is undertaking improvements. This distinction seems obvious and fairly clear, even though in a particular case both of these elements might be involved.

The answer to the second question evidently must depend upon whether the earning capacity which both repairs and improvements affect is used for the payment of what Germany owes to the allies. From this point of view there is no need to distinguish between repairing damages and improving facilities for production and transportation; if they are a means of earning money for the allies during the long term of years set for the payment of tribute the allies have an interest in both and are not defrauded by either.

It is sometimes said that if Germany can replace its lost shipping, redevelop its railroads, dig canals and instal improved machinery in its factories it might have used the resources thus expended in paying its debts. But to treat the matter so summarily is to ignore the difficulty of effecting international payments which exceed resources in gold and foreign credits. These repairs and improvements have been accomplished not with money in the international sense, but with labor, of which Germany has an ample supply. The workers have been paid in marks, and while the mark has collapsed the substantial results of the labor remain in an industrial plant capable of earning money if international conditions make this possible.

In the same way France, which has not yet been able to set about paying its debts to Great Britain and the United States, has been able to accomplish splendid results in restoring its devastated provinces, because this could be done by French labor paid for by French credits. France borrowed while Germany inflated, but these are but different methods of solving the same problem, each method having its advantages and its drawbacks.

A wholly different method might have been found had France been willing to accept Germany's proposal that the devastated provinces be reconstructed by German labor battalions, paid in marks and using material made in Germany. That the proposal should appear objectionable can be readily understood, and even such payments in kind as have been made have brought no little protest from French interests adversely affected, but as a means of bringing German labor, which is Germany's sole source of wealth, to bear on reconstruction it was evidently the directest and simplest plan.

With this direct line blocked it is hard to suggest any alternative but the one actually taken, of storing up these work units in the form of industrial repairs and betterments, the net effect of which will be to increase Germany's power to manufacture and export and with the surplus to pay instalments on the indemnity. This work will of course be wasted, so far as reparations are concerned, unless a settlement is arrived at, but to accomplish such a settlement is precisely the aim of the negotiations in which Great Britain is taking the lead.

How China Can Free Itself

Dr. Sun of Canton is not alone in denouncing militarism as the cause of the chaos of present-day China, says the Christian Science Monitor. There is no one at all conversant with that unhappy situation but sees precisely that same lion in the path of Chinese progress. And till the beast be driven off, any development of that land of vastest possibilities must remain a matter of mere academic theory. How bring this theoretic into the real of the practical? How eliminate the lion? That query touches close not Chinese interests only, not only those of the Far East, but, as well, those of two intimately associated hemispheres. A survey of this zone of international trouble suggests five answers to the question, which may be categorically set down: Militarism may be ended in the Great Asian Republic (1) by a "Strong Man"; or (2) by co-operation among the more powerful provincial governors; or (3) by foreign intervention; or (4) by foreign assistance, or (5) by the action of Chinese public opinion.

There would seem little or nothing to be said in support of the first four of these propositions. For one leader to arise, strong enough to enforce general peace, means, of course, prolonged and sanguinary warfare, and China wants anything else. Nor has a celestial Henry of Richmond appeared to promise his land a close to her Wars of the Roses on some Oriental Bosworth Field. No coordination of programs among the four more important factions of today has thus far proved possible, because of the varying ambitions of rival chieftains. It would be almost as hard for the western powers to agree among themselves upon a unified plan of intervention, but, assuming this obvious difficulty to have been compromised, how would the millions of China's natives take such intervention? To grant that they long for a riddance of local fighting is not the same thing as to admit they would pay for that the price of supervision carried on through years. Foreign assistance, however, might "go," providing it were formally invited by the recognised leaders in the State—but who are such leaders?

The more the whole of this disturbing complex is studied, the more the student finds himself driven to look for a solution of the yellow riddle as coming ultimately, and probably, through the last of the possibilities suggested above: through Chinese public opinion, that is. Already it may be seen awake to a slight degree, spasmodically and unorganisedly concerning itself with troop disbandment or work on the Constitution. It has been of some real force in the civil wars of past months. Is it not reasonable to expect this influence to grow and be not less than determinative in the result? It is beyond doubt that the sentiment of the people is overwhelmingly in favor of disarmament. When will this now silent power find voice effective enough to compel an understanding between the principal military factors in the country's uneasy equation, or at least a reduction of their troops? That would be so long a first step as to count, indeed.

The Trans-Siberian Journey

Actual Experiences And Practical Hints

BY A RECENT TRAVELLER

II.

Money-changing will be one of the heaviest crosses of the traveller between Peking and Moscow, for he will handle Mexican dollars, yen, Bank of Chosen yen, "big silver" rubles, "small silver" rubles, gold rubles, and Soviet paper money. The best currency to use on the trip is American paper money, carried in various denominations—several ones, a few fives and tens, some twenties, and the balance in fifties and hundreds. Before leaving Peking it is advisable to have a clear notation made upon the passport by the Soviet authorities of money to be taken through the customs; and even then it is advisable to make this money as inconspicuous as possible, hence the fifties and hundreds. The balance of money not needed in Russia should be taken in cheques, letters of credit, or other negotiable paper. On the other hand, the only currency which is known and valued all the way from Harbin to Warsaw is the American dollar; the writer has seen money changers look wonderingly at a sterling note and then give a good, honest exchange on American dollars. It is always advisable to have available short change on hand in case one finds one's self in a position where it is imperative to sell a few dollars at an exorbitant exchange. In this case the smaller the bill the less the loss. Bills without Washington D. C. on them are occasionally taken at a discount in some parts of Russia for no intelligible reason.

With reasonable security the traveller need have no fear about the safety of his money; travelling in Russia is safer than travelling in China. Only two forms of hold-up are to be feared—that of the customs officials, and that of the money changer.

It is advisable to carry enough yen from Peking to Harbin for all needs, as the banks, the railway money-changers, and the Yamato hotels pay about 1.90 yen on the dollar where the banks rate is 2.02. At Harbin any one of several European or American banks will give a good exchange. One must be careful, however, to note the hours of opening and closing of the banks; and here is one of the advantages of always carrying negotiable paper in the form of dollars; banks in Manchuria and Russia close on Russian, Chinese, American, English, and Japanese, holidays, in addition to Sundays, church holidays, and the usual bank holidays. One frequently finds himself temporarily insolvent, with pressing claims from ticket-agent or hotel clerk, neither willing to cash his cheque, and the bank closed.

At Manchuli it is advisable to get rid of all remaining Chinese money, and and buy fifty or more silver rubles. There is a change shop in the Chinese section of the town which gives good exchange, and at the next town, Chita, the traveller will have to pull wires and elude the authorities to avoid being cheated on his exchange. The silver ruble should be approximately on a par with the Mexican silver dollar. The traveller is therefore wise if he stocks up about seventy-five or a hundred rubles before entering the Far Eastern Republic.

In Chita the writer was offered one hundred and fifty-five silver rubles at the State Bank for one hundred American dollars; the hotel proprietor offered him one hundred seventy-five, and he finally changed through private hands, thanks to a countryman, at one hundred and eighty-five. The service of the Government Bank to foreigners in changing money is similarly good in Moscow, and it is good rule to follow in Russia, never to change money at railways, hotels, or at the Government Bank.

A	One gold dollar	equals	$1.96 Mex.
B		or	2.03 Yen
C	One dollar Mexican	equals	1.00 'Big Silver Ruble'
D		or	0.95 Gold Ruble
E		or	2.65 'Small Silver Ruble'
F		or	265 kopeks (F.E. Republic)
G	19 gold rubles	equal	20 'Big Silver Rubles'
H	One gold ruble	equals	285 kopeks
I	One Big Silver ruble	equals	265 kopeks
J	One gold dollar equals unkn	own sums of Soviet rubles.
K	One Small Silver Ruble equals	100 Kopeks.

The unit of currency in the F. E. Republic is the big silver dollar, about the size and weight of a Yuan dollar; gold rubles circulate at a slight premium; silver subsidiary coins circulate, but just as the Chinese subsidiary coins now threaten to do, they have depreciated and are worth only their bullion value, so that 265 kopeks in small change equals one big Silver rouble. One hundred of those depreciated kopeks is called a small rouble, and hotel bills are made out in this coin.

Exchange on Soviet money rises every month approximately fifty per cent, and is unpredictable. It used to be said that in Moscow the street car workers lost so much on depreciation that they eventually collected the fares at the end of each trip. One cannot tell therefore until he reaches Chita what the exchange is; but it is advisable to buy here, as anyone who has Soviet money in his hands is anxious to get rid of it before it depreciates, as it is not current in the Far Eastern Republic.

After arrival in Russia, however, the traveller will find the Soviet money very easy to handle, as it is based on the decimal system. In January 1923 the last six figures were cut off and the millions are now rubles.

The ideal way to pass Russian customs is to have no property and no money. If this is impossible, it is well to ask for permission, when getting the passport, to take in typewriters, cameras, guns, etc. as otherwise trouble may ensue. Guns are particularly liked by customs officials, who also have a considerable fondness for cameras not covered by an official paper with stamps. Typewriters, etc., cannot be taken out of Russia except by special permission, but the customs officials often read the ruling in the reverse, and hold up the traveller who is taking them in—unless he has enough of the official-looking papers to satisfy them. Customs examination at the Manchuli border occurs three times to see that nothing is missed; a woman searcher comes through the train with the officials to search the persons of women suspected of having valuables. It is well to take more cigarettes and cigars than the law allows; the confiscation of these allows the customs official sufficient exercise of authority so that he can then pass on to the next victim without further delay.

This difficulty can be exaggerated, however. It is well to get the advice of the local Soviet authorities about customs regulations when getting one's visa; and in Moscow it is advisable to have one's baggage sealed at the Moscow Customs House before departure in order to avoid difficulties at the border.

Out-Of-The-Usual Dishes

BY A FRENCH CHEF

Pumpkin Soup.—This soup is be made first. Add a little more , from the next dish, which must made with the "stock" obtained water, also four onions, three sliced tomatoes, and six slices of pumpkin. Place on the fire, and boil slowly until the vegetables are cooked. Remove the pumpkin and pass through a coarse sieve. Strain the soup and pour over the pumpkin. Put this back into the saucepan and keep hot until required for serving.

This is a real peasant soup, but it is very delicious and should be served with rough chunks of crusty black bread.

Saucisse a L'Espagnole.—This makes a most delightful item for cold luncheon or may be used as a supper dish. Take two pounds of lean beef, one pound of fat pork, and half a pound of very salt bacon. Boil these together in a large saucepan so that the meat is completely covered with water. When the meats are cooked remove and leave until quite cold, then mince them together, using the coarsest knife of the mincer. Add three onions and some parsley finely chopped, the yolks of three eggs, salt, and plenty of black pepper. Mix thoroughly and moisten with a little of the water in which the meat was boiled, form into the shape of a large sausage, and tie it in a piece of linen. Place in a steamer and cook for one hour. Do not untie the cloth until the sausage is quite cold. Serve with green salad.

Macaroni Cheese.—One may be inclined to treat this as a commonplace dish, but if care and a little trouble are taken it can be rendered by no means ordinary. First boil your macaroni and then place in a large mixing bowl. Beat three eggs and mix well with the macaroni. Add some grated Parmesan and Gruyere cheese mixed in equal proportions. Stir well, and add pepper and a quarter of a pound of cream. Butter a fireproof dish and put in the mixture, adding a few small lumps of butter, sprinkle with some more of the cheese, and bake until richly browned.

Pineapple Salad.—The following fruits only should be used in this salad, the great point of which lies in the blending of flavours: — One medium-sized pineapple, three oranges, four bananas, the juice of half a lemon.

Scoop out the inside of the pineapple—do not on any account cut the fruit with a steel knife—and mash into a pulp with a silver fork. Peel the bananas and oranges, removing the pips and inner skins of the latter. Mash this also and mix with the pineapple. Take the kernel of a very small coconut and chop fine—do not use desiccated coconut—and stir with the fruit until all is thoroughly mixed. Add two tablespoonfuls of soft white sugar and the juice of the lemon. Stir lightly with a fork. Place in a glass dish and pack in ice for two hours before serving.

Hints On Home Nursing

People who are usually well are prone to think their less fortunate sisters rather "fussy" in times of illness. Yet a little care and forethought in nursing can ease pain and make the long hours less weary for the bedridden.

Many patients might, with the doctor's permission, be propped up at intervals during the day using a bedroom chair as an improvised rest. Place the chair upside-down, feet uppermost, with the top bar of the back resting on the bed. Pad the chair-back well with pillows, placing two pillows upright with their tops leaning towards each other, and one across for the head to lean against. A bolster put under the knees will prevent the patient from slipping down the bed. Pillows come in useful, too, in case of a fractured arm, if put gently under the elbow, allowing the arm to rest on the pillow and thereby raising it and giving a little ease.

The bed should never face a window—daylight is too strong for anyone out of condition, and if shaded would tend to make the room dismal, which must be strictly guarded against. Flowers and plants are not advisable in the sick-room, as they absorb the atmospheric gases which are necessary to the patient.

Elbows, back, and heels need daily attention to prevent soreness, and should first be rubbed with methylated spirit, then dusted with boracic powder. It is a good plan to fold a strong sheet in two lengthways, placing it across the bed where the weight of the body rests, leaving just sufficient sheet to tuck in at one end and the remaining length at the other. This latter can be "drawn" at intervals during the day, and so check the moisture from the skin making the under-sheet damp; it also prevents creasing of the bed linen, which is the chief cause of bedsores.

For invalids on very light diet the menu is necessarily limited, and one often feels at a loss to "ring the changes" and so tempt appetite.

A very palatable and nourishing dish can be made from beef tea, eggs, and milk. Have ready some home-made beef tea, seasoned to taste. Beat well one egg in a basin, and add sufficient milk and beef tea to make the whole to one gill. Pour into a small mould, and steam until set. Turn out when cold, and garnish with parsley.

In conclusion, a clean towel, soap, and hot water will be much appreciated by the doctor on making his call.

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

A FATAL ERROR

"WHAT are you looking so glum about?" asked a Houston man as he dropped into a friend's office one day last week.

"Same old fool break of putting a letter in the wrong envelope, and I'm afraid to go home. My wife sent me down a note by the hired man an hour ago, telling me to send her ten dollars, and asking me to meet her here at the office at 3 o'clock and go shopping with her. At the same time I got a bill for ten dollars from a merchant I owe, asking me to remit. I scribbled off a note to the merchant saying: 'Can't possibly do it. I've got to meet another little thing today that won't be put off.' I made the usual mistake and sent the merchant the ten dollars and my wife the note."

"Can't you go home and explain the mistake to your wife?"

"You don't know her. I've taken out an accident policy for $10,000 good for two hours, and I expect her here in fifteen minutes. Tell all the boys goodbye for me, and if you meet a lady on the stairs as you go down keep close to the wall."

NOT NOW

Some day—not now; oh, ask me not again;
Impassioned, low, and deep, with wild regret;
Thy words but fill my heart with haunting pain.
Some day, but my friend—not yet—not yet.

Perchance when time hath wrought some wondrous change,
And fate hath swept her barriers away,
Then, lifted to some higher, freer range,
Thou may'st return and speak again—some day.

Oh, leave me now—do not so coldly turn!
Thou seest my very soul has suffered sore.
Adieu! But, oh some day thou canst return
And bring that dry goods bill to me once more.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

HONESTY

You would think that, by this time, the subject of honor and honesty had been exhausted. It is discussed in the Bible. Men have written on it for thousands of years. We take it for granted that we know all about it. Honesty is the best policy. That's all there is to it. So, why bother about it?

"What do you think!" exclaimed a girl, in the trolley seat in front of mine. "I went into So-and-So's,"—she mentioned the name of a well-known department store—"this morning and bought a hair-net. You know all the fuss they make about giving you change? They keep you waiting while they send the slips to the office. Well, I only gave them a dollar and I got a dollar seventy-five cents change. Don't it serve them right?

"It sure does," said her companion. "Anyway, they can afford to lose it."

There is something nice and clean about honesty. It puts you on good terms with yourself. The idea of taking other people's money just because they can afford to lose it, is hardly a nice idea. It is not one that you would care to advertise—even if the owner did not come around to claim his rights. It just wouldn't make you feel entirely happy with yourself.

And yet, sad as it is to relate, there are many people in the world who would feel hurt if you told them they were dishonest and yet who practice some of the meanest and most despicable forms of dishonesty.

The person who shirks work or loafs when his employer is not watching, is dishonest. UNLESS, he tells his employer, "when you are not watching, I do not intend to work."

A person who takes advantage of another's error, in an innocent transaction, is not honest. There are many times when, even, the holding back of a thought is dishonest. Truth is but honesty expressed in the currency of speech.

Being thoroughly honest is not quite as simple as it looks. It requires a great deal of mind-searching and heart-searching for a person to say,

"I have been invariable honest and up-right in my dealings with all people."

The highwayman who holds you up at the point of his pistol and takes your pocket-book is dishonest. But, knowing that he must spend years in jail if he is caught, he has, at least, the redeeming quality of courage to offset, in some small degree, his crime. But the person who lies or takes another's money or reputation or peace of mind, without fear of detection or danger of jail, is worse than any highwayman.

No. It is not as easy as it looks.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

You have fought your way right and left, regardless, when things did not please you; and now you are reaping the whirlwind.

You wonder why you cannot get into this club or that where you have many friends, or where at least there are many whom you look upon as friends?

You forget that you have been, and usually are, bossy and disagreeable.

You think that anything your heart wishes should come to you for the asking. If not, you are disappointed and disgruntled.

Well, if you sow discord in the little gatherings with others you may expect that those who have noticed this characteristic about you are not going willingly to subject themselves to stubborn wilfulness on your part.

Why associate intimately with persons who rub your fur the wrong way and make you ugly all day?

Especially in these days of good fellowship, organisations are the sought where men and women can agree not to disagree unless there is radical cause for complaint.

Do not be so petty and fault-finding and you will have more friends.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT

FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 130 square yards one coat.

⅓ less fuel with ARCOLA installed!

Arcola sends the heat through the whole house instead of up the chimney. Where three tons of fuel were required with the old heating system, Arcola burns but two.

This advantage alone is sufficient to put Arcola in front of others, but in addition Arcola runs without attention; gives healthful and uniform warmth; is very decorative and easily installed

Europe's Recovery Excels America's, Mr. Ford's View

Sees Exploitation Until People "Find Out What They Want And Drive It Through"

BY GEORGE T. ODELL

Detroit, Mich., (by mail).—It was a little after 8 o'clock in the morning when I walked into the experimental plant of Henry Ford at Dearborn. He was there ahead of me. Through the glass partition of the office adjoining that into which I was shown I saw him sitting in a plain oak chair in one corner with his legs crossed. At a large flat-topped desk in the middle of the room sat one of his executive employees while on the opposite side of the room was a powerfully built man wearing a cap and clothing that stamped him a workman. I learned later that this man was a representative of one of the railway unions. The executive employee and the other man were doing most of the talking while Mr. Ford occasionally interjected a brief remark.

The Ford experimental plant at Dearborn is a plain red brick building, two stories high in front where the offices are. Behind that are the shops, a single story in height and crowded with machinery. The outside trim and the inside walls are immaculate with white paint. Although most of the machines were in operation this morning there were no disturbing noises to be heard within the whole structure. No clanking or rasping of metals greeted the ears, but only a pleasant hum, for the machines are all operated by individual electric motors deriving their energy from several swiftly whirling almost silent generators at one end of the main building.

DOES BUSINESS IN OPEN

The offices on both the first and second floors are separated from each other, and from the corridor, by glass partitions, so that a person sitting in any one of them has an uninterrupted vista of the whole length of the building and can see the occupants of every other office, although he cannot hear them. I mention this because it is characteristic of Henry Ford. He insists that all work be done in the open. He has the same arrangement of glassdivided offices in his huge production plants at Highland Park and River Rouge, and the first thing he did after obtaining control of the Lincoln Motor works was to tear out the opaque partitions between offices and replace them with glass.

I was shown into an office in the center of the row on the first floor, and had been seated there only a few minutes before Mr. Ford came in and greeted me in a manner that indicated recognition. This surprised me greatly, as I had met him only once before, in 1918, on the walk in front of the building in which we were now seated and had chatted with him then but a few minutes. This little incident exposed one of the trifling human vanities of the man. I expressed my surprise that he should remember me, to which he replied:

"I met you here several years ago, I remember there was another man with you. I never forget faces but I do not remember names very well." He said this with air of pride, not in the least obtrusive, and his recollection was perfect because I was with Mr. Sorenson when I met him that time.

MR. FORD "BLUSHES"

Mr. Ford seated himself beside me, crossed his long legs and waited for me to open the conversation. I began by remarking that in the last few months I had traveled extensively about the United States, talking with thousands of people, mostly farmers and small town business men, and that large numbers of them—the majority in fact—had expressed their preference for him as President of the United States.

Now let me hasten to say that when I mentioned the presidency, Mr. Ford did not blush—his face is so bronzed I doubt if a blush would show through—but nevertheless he gave me the impression of a man who was blushing. He made an involuntary gesture of depreciation. May I say that he gave me the impression of one who was overwhelmed with shyness at the mere idea of such tremendous popular approval. In this impression I was confirmed later as I shall show. That is Henry Ford's attitude toward the supreme gift within the power of the American people.

"They don't know what they want," he replied. "America is changing, the whole world is changing and the people are impatient to have the changes come quickly but they do not know what they want. We are going to have a change here. The good hard-headed spirit of Americans will come out all right. You see I am an optimist. But right now, I sometimes think that Europe is further along with the change that is coming than the United States. Unless our people find out what they want and drive it through in the next year or two, I am afraid they are in for 20 years more of exploitation."

A few minutes later, reverting to that subject again, Mr. Ford said: "Until the people know what they want I don't know but what the best plan will be to keep the country in the hands of those who do nothing."

"You were speaking of farmers," he continued. "Farming in this country is tremendously wasteful—it is all over the world. The day will come when farming will be conducted in large units by machinery. One man with a machine which perhaps he himself has helped to build, will do in a day as much as five men now do with their teams of horses. Horses on a farm are wasteful. Why, there are lots of small farms that have four and five teams of horses that stand idle three quarters of the time eating their heads off. In a few years the horse will become obsolete except for saddle horses though why anyone wants to ride horse back is more than I can understand."

I may say in parenthesis that recently Mr. Ford took up horseback riding in anticipation of a visit to his coal properties in Kentucky where no other means of transportation exists, and if I am permitted to state a conclusion it is that he has not enjoyed the experience.

WASTED EFFICIENCY

Mr. Ford has a farm of 8000 acres in Dearborn township and the harvest is now under way. As if to point the moral to what he had just been telling me, a procession of tractors, each attached to some piece of harvesting machinery, began to clatter by in front of the plant. Pointing to them he said:

"Yesterday we harvested 150 acres of hay, and we shall put an equal amount in the barns today. We use tractors and 150 men from out of our shops to do the work. When they have finished in the field they go into the shop and resume production and no time or human energy is wasted. That is my idea of efficiency. The actual work on the farm can be done in a few days with the aid of machinery and efficient methods. Most farmers waste a great deal of their productive energy, and there cannot be too much production so long as there is a human want unfilled."

I must digress once more to point out that all over Michigan, where he can find water power, Mr. Ford is setting up small manufacturing plants to give employment to farmers and farm laborers during the days when otherwise they would be idle. In other words, he is trying to put his theory into practice.

The conversation took a new slant and Mr. Ford got on the subject of co-operative marketing.

CURTAILMENT OF PRODUCTION

"Yes, I have seen it in the south," he said. "Down in Alabama they are even selling pecans co-operatively. Co-operative marketing is falling into the hands of exploiters who will use it for the purpose of curtailing production. See if I am not right. The exploiter always wants to curtail production as the means of holding up the price. Instead of lowering the cost by increasing production by more efficient means, they are always trying to stop production short of human needs. But I am optimistic. I don't think the world will stand for that sort of thing much longer. I believe that not 1 percent of the arable land in the world has been put under cultivation.

"Labor unions are part of the exploiting scheme," he continued switching off from the subject of farming entirely. "The men probably don't know it and maybe their leaders don't know that they are really but tools in the hands of the master exploiters of production and human productive energy. Those masters know how to play off one end against the other always for their own advantage. The railroad unions are part of that scheme. There's one of them in there now," he said, nodding his head in the direction of the big man in the cap sitting in the office from which he had just come. "All the unions, big and little, are part of the exploiting system, though I think most of them are unconscious of it."

To be quite accurate, I must report that Mr. Ford, during this part of the interview and afterward, used the words Jew and exploiter. He used them interchangeably, and, so far as this interview is concerned, his use of both terms was invariably employed to indicate those who practice some form of usury either in the manipulation of finances or in the handling of commodities so as to obtain usurious profits. At least while he talked with me there never was deviation from this synonymous use of the words, and I never once heard him use the word Jew in a racial sense.
